Fall Guys: Ultimate Knockout is a ludicrous multiplayer game in which you complete the strangest tasks so as to score as many points as possible and stand on the podium. The game is created by the Mediatonic studio, known from a visual novel about dating pigeons – Hatoful Boyfriend. It was published by Devolver Digital. Fall Guys: Ultimate Knockout is a fully dedicated multiplayer game that is divided into competitive mode in which everyone fights with everyone, and in collaborative mode involving team fights. Each race to win first place is divided into rounds, after which some competitors fall out, and some continue the fight. The rounds consist of various challenges: climbing uphill, full of obstacles, maintaining balance on a skateboard, finishing the line with a golden egg, without losing, and much more. The fun of the game also comes from watching our comic little people through their various challenges when they fall limp, bounce off objects and from each other, try to climb the mountain or try to stand in place. The game also allows you to personalize your character, putting your accessories. There are many of them, and their style is varied, so everyone will find something that will separate them from hundreds of other participants. Dozens of people of color hungry for competition are ready to participate in abstract game shows: A wonderful prize awaits the winner. We are in this group and strange, fun and difficult tasks await us. However, if we want to win, we have to try, because the competition in the form of 59 other players facilitates the proper performance of the tasks. By agreement, the game is reminiscent of a Japanese game show, full of humor and absurdity, the style of which is further emphasized by the audiovisual environment. Live and intriguing songs perfectly match the graphic singing of bright colors related to animated films for children.
